

The NAB is wrong in lobbying to prevent Satellite Radio from providing innovative and useful services to paying customers. Another attempt by a business sector to avoid legitimate competition to the detriment of the purchasing public. NAB would be better advised to be pro-active and improve their products, rather than defensive and "circling their wagons". This would clearly benefit all.